xcpnl is a project came to my mind last summer(2007). I have only one cpanel account but I want to resell the space I have to other poeple and give them a control panel. Unfortunately I cannot grant them with new users and I have to create ehat ever they want manually. This system will allow them to add domains and sub-domains, creat email account, ftp accounts, DB and DB users. This way every thing will be done without contacting me directly! The project is half way done and I stoped working on it currently due to busy life then college started! but I'll get to it after a while and fire up its own website xcpnl.com.
